

2015-2016 DCBN Area Student Activity Report

We will review the progress of all Developmental, Cognitive, & Behavioral Neuroscience (DCBN) Psychology Program students prior to the beginning of the 2015-16 academic year. Our intent is to assess your progress to help both you and the faculty identify areas of achievement and areas that need improvement. Because only you know what you've done, we ask that you complete this form and attach a copy of your unofficial transcript (from PeopleSoft).

We also request that you include your curriculum vitae (CV) to help us see the progress you have made toward reaching your professional goals and to help you to evaluate your goals and priorities for the upcoming year. In addition, we can use this opportunity to provide you with feedback about the process of writing an effective CV. Under a heading such as "Research Experience," please include bulleted paragraphs or brief sections outlining your research in progress even if it has not yet resulted in presentations or papers. We are more interested in your progress at your stage of training. Of course, if you have publications and presentations, you should list these. You may have sections for papers such as, "in preparation", "submitted", "in revision", or "in press, in addition to published papers. Similarly, under a heading like "Teaching Experience" or "Employment," you may list all teaching activities with which you have been involved. If it is assisting with grading, you would have a line like "Teaching Assistant – [Semester year, Course Number and Title] – evaluated student performance on written projects and examinations." If you teach your own course, you would have a similar line, only this time it would begin with "Teaching Fellow," and it would conclude by letting us know it was a new preparation for you, or how you've developed new materials for the course or whatever you have added to the course that is noteworthy.

Please fill out all the items that apply on the electronic version of this form and email a completed version of this form and your CV to your advisor by Monday, August 1, 2016. The DCBN faculty will review and evaluate your achievements and you will receive the results of this evaluation of your progress. We expect you to meet with your advisor to go over the faculty evaluation and sign it. The signed form will be added to your student file.
