2023-2024 Spring Transfer Monitor

In order to accurately determine your federal aid eligibility at the University of Houston, we are required to review your student aid history within the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS). It appears you have active federal student aid at another institution within the same academic year for which you are currently applying at our institution.

If you have already received aid during the 2023-2024 school year and/or your loans are in excess of annual borrowing limits or federal aggregate limits, it may affect your spring 2024 aid eligibility at UH.
